

Alaska Court System Model Parenting Agreement

Instructions

This form was developed by a superior court judge to help parents reach agreement on important issues concerning their children. It covers many issues that parents may not think about when making custody decisions. The form may be used in a divorce case, a dissolution, a custody case between unmarried parents, or an action to modify an existing custody order.

If you want this agreement to be part of your custody order, you must file it with the court. If the judge approves your agreement, it will become part of the custody order in your case.

The form offers you many options for arranging your children's custody and care. Fill out the sections you agree will apply to your children and you. In each section, you can pick one of the choices that is offered, or you can write your own arrangement in the space marked "Other." If you need more space, you can attach additional pages. (If you continue on a separate page, you need to make it clear which section of the agreement that you are writing about (for example: "Continuation of agreement on vacations and travel by children – Sec. 4.4").

You can fill out the form by hand. Be sure to print neatly in black ink. If you want to type your responses, an electronic version of the form is available on the Alaska Court System's web site at <http://www.alaska.net/~akctlib/forms.htm>. The clerk of court may also have the form available on a computer diskette.

Each parent must sign the form in front of a notary public. A court clerk can provide this notary service for you (at no charge) when you file this agreement with the court. You must bring a photo ID with you for the notarization.

If you have attached additional pages to the agreement, you should write the name of the document, the case title, and the case number in the bottom left corner of each page (for example: Parenting Agreement, Smith v. Jones, 4FA-01-1234C).

5. Parents Living in Same Community - Custody Schedule.

Note: Physical custody requires a plan for day-to-day care for child(ren) that fosters stability and predictability. You must consider your child(ren) and what will help them get enough sleep, be prepared for and participate in their school actively, have routine meals and hygiene care, and receive nurturing and parental supervision. Some child(ren) spend school days in one home and weekends in the other, some spend more time in the summer in one home and school time in the other, some alternate between homes on a regular schedule. The child(ren)'s age and individual needs and school situation should be considered. Also, the parent's work schedules and availability to provide transportation and supervision may be factors.

- Other:

7. Move by Parent - Notice and Future Schedule.

Note: If you do not have an agreement about how your child(ren) will spend time with both parents if one of you moves then you may create a very difficult time for your child(ren). It is helpful to have an agreement in place as to what the arrangement will be if one parent moves, and then either parent can file a Motion to Modify with the court. A Motion to Modify Custody or Visitation takes from about 2 months to 8 months to be decided by the court, depending on the issues.

(choose all that apply)

- Each parent shall give at least 120 days notice to the other parent of any intent to move.
- Each parent shall give at least _____ days notice to the other parent of any intent to move.

- The child(ren) shall remain with the non-moving parent until we reach a modified parenting agreement or the court decides a modification after one of us has filed a Motion to Modify Custody.

8. Parents Living in Different Communities - Custody Schedule.

Note: In deciding a custody schedule for child(ren) when parents live in different communities one of the primary considerations is how many trips can the parents arrange and pay for each year. Each trip by airplane requires a round trip for each child and a roundtrip for two escorts, one each way, if escorts are used.

Example : Two children traveling Summer Break and Winter Break is 4 tickets a year (8 tickets with escorts)

Take the average cost of a ticket---$500, $600, $700 -- and multiply it times the number of child(ren) and escort tickets times the number of trips per year to get the total cost and evaluate what Mom and Dad can arrange and pay for each year.

Example: 2 kids x 2 trips [4 tickets] per year to Seattle at $500 per ticket = $2,000 ($4,000 with escorts)

- If we have been living in the same community and one parent moves, the child(ren) shall remain with the non-moving parent and the following schedule for visits with the moving parent shall apply unless we agree differently or the court modifies the custody.
- We are or shall soon be living in different communities. Our child(ren) shall be with  Dad  Mom except for the times agreed to below when our child(ren) shall visit with  Dad  Mom.
- Other:

8.1 Parents Living in Different Communities: Infant to Age 3 (or Older).

- Our infant/toddler shall have the same visitation as we have arranged for the siblings in the other part of this agreement.
- Dad  Mom shall travel to the community that our child(ren) are in ___ times per year, with 30 days notice to the other parent, and shall have daily visits of at least 4 hours and increasing to alternate day overnights. The visiting parent shall provide information as to schedule, location and telephone numbers for each visit.
- Dad  Mom shall travel to the community that our child(ren) are in ___ times per year, with 30 days notice to the other parent. After a re-acquaintance, the parent then may take our child(ren) for a trip. The re-acquaintance visits shall be at least two 4-hour visits. Our child(ren) may then travel for a visit with  Dad  Mom for up to ___ days. The parent shall provide information as to schedules, locations and telephone numbers for the visit at least ten days in advance.
